21/22 season

Where we play
just for you

Welcome to the Digital Concert Hall

The Berliner Philharmoniker and chief conductor Kirill Petrenko welcome you to the 2021/22 season! Full of anticipation at the prospect of intensive musical encounters with esteemed guests and fascinating discoveries – but especially with you.

Austro-German music from the Classical period to late Romanticism is one facet of Kirill Petrenko's artistic collaboration with the orchestra. He continues this programmatic course with works by Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Brahms and Strauss. Long-time companions like Herbert Blomstedt, Sir John Eliot Gardiner, Janine Jansen and Sir András Schiff also devote themselves to this core repertoire. Semyon Bychkov, Zubin Mehta and Gustavo Dudamel will each conduct a Mahler symphony, and Philippe Jordan returns to the Berliner Philharmoniker after a long absence.

One of Kirill Petrenko's focuses extending over several seasons is works by Russian composers. In addition to Tchaikovsky's The Queen of Spades, he will conduct the composer's fairy-tale opera Iolanta. Two world-famous pianists, Nikolai Lugansky and Daniil Trifonov, will perform concertos by Rachmaninov. In addition, during the year of Stravinsky's 140th birthday and the 50th anniversary of his death, his most familiar ballet music will be heard, and Sir Simon Rattle invites listeners to join him on a Stravinsky Journey.

The coming season also promises rewarding discoveries, including music by unjustly forgotten composers from the first third of the 20th century. Rued Langgaard and Leone Sinigaglia belong to the "Lost Generation" that forms a connecting link between late Romanticism and the music that followed the Second World War.

In addition to rediscoveries, the season offers encounters with the latest contemporary music. World premieres by Olga Neuwirth and Erkki-Sven Tüür reflect our diverse musical environment. Artist in Residence Patricia Kopatchinskaja is also one of the most exciting artists of our time. The violinist has the ability to captivate her audiences, even in challenging works, with enthusiastic playing, technical brilliance and insatiable curiosity.

Numerous debuts will arouse your curiosity as well: conductors Gustavo Gimeno, Antonello Manacorda and John Storgårds and violinist Augustin Hadelich introduce themselves. A very special debutant will also appear: John Williams, the master of film music, conducts his best-known compositions.

These and many other exciting encounters await you in the Digital Concert Hall – we look forward to seeing you there!

Kirill Petrenko – anticipation and new beginnings

In June 2015, the Berliner Philharmoniker elected Kirill Petrenko as their new chief conductor, and he began his tenure in the summer of 2019. Now an exclusive edition presents key recordings of this phase of anticipation and new beginnings. Performances of works by Beethoven, Tchaikovsky, Franz Schmidt and Rudi Stephan reveal not only the first major programme themes, but also the exciting, intensive music-making in this partnership.
